WEDNESDAY MORNING, DEC. 16, 1863.

Collier supplied us last night with the latest Louisville and Cincinnati papers.

We are indebted to Mr. Joel Davis, Agent of the Adams Express Company, for files of the latest Cincinnati, New York and Philadelphia papers.

Collier has received at his news depot, Cherry street, a supply of the first number of Brownlow's Knoxville Whig. Here's your chance to read a new newspaper. They were brought to Nashville M. H. Spangenberg, No. 20 Market street.

RE-ENLISTMENTS.—The 28th Ohio.—We are happy to hear that upwards of 500 of the 28th Ohio have re-enlisted in the veteran service. This gallant regiment composed a part of the force that stormed and carried Mission Ridge on the 25th ult, when they had the misfortune to lose their intrepid Colonel, a notice of whose services, death and burial, we publish elsewhere in this morning's Union.

HOLIDAY PRESENTS.—There is nothing which will be more highly appreciated by a lady for a holiday present than a good set of Furs. Make such a gift to your wife, daughter, or sweetheart, and your good name and deed will be cherished in the memory of the fair recipients with gratitude for many years, especially if bought from the house of Green & Green. They keep nothing but the finest and best manufactured goods in the country, and warrant all of their goods as represented.

AMUSEMENTS.

NEW THEATRE.—The entertainment at the new theatre to-night consists of the play of "The Swiss Cottage." Miss Thorne appears as Nell and Læstie. This is a splendid bill, and those who contemplate going may expect an evening's entertainment of the first character.

THEATRE.—At the old theatre, the drama of "The Wife, or a Tale of Manx" will be repeated to-night, Miss Jane Combs as Marianna, and Mr. Foster as Julian St. Pierre. The performances close with the farce of "Barney, the Baron."

Last night the "World of Fashion" was played for the second time. Miss Combs played Marie to perfection. The piece was admirably produced. Miss Johnson, the beautiful young actress who made her first appearance here Monday night, confirmed the fine impression she made as the Marchioness de Bellero, and she will be missed to-night. Miss Lyon, one of the most and most attractive young ladies on our stage; Mr. Jordan, Mrs. Stewart, Mr. Everett, and others, all acquitted themselves handsomely.—Everett especially. Ah, Harry, the presence of charming women has a wonderful effect upon you.

We read in a Chicago paper yesterday a "moral and sentimental" article, respecting a manager who had seduced several young girls whom he had hired as members of a ballet troupe. We were affected almost to tears, and began to think the editor had a holy sense of vice and immorality; but on turning to another column, we found a highly wrought eulogium upon a dancer, who, a truant from her husband, is going around the country accompanied by a paramour, whose wife is suing in a New York court for a divorce. And then we thought—"Curse your sentiments, Mr. Editor!"

The Capture of the Chesapeake.

The N. Y. Evening Post gives the following account of the capture of the steamer Chesapeake:

A number of prizes have recently been sent North by our blockading squadron, and there is reason to believe that the crews of these captured blockade-runners—desperate fellows, who fear neither God nor man—have been imprudently set loose in our ports, to the manifest danger of our own shipping. What an enterprising leader could do with a party of such rogues on board a quiet passenger steamer, has just been shown by the capture of the steamer Chesapeake off Cape Cod, at half-past one yesterday morning. Fortunately, the captured steamer is an old vessel, and of little speed or value. She is one of Cromwell's line, plying between New York and Boston, and sailed from here last Saturday with freight and passengers. Amongst the passengers were, as we now hear, seventeen rebel fellows, in all probability, not adrift here from blockade-runners. When twenty miles north-northeast from Cape Cod they rose upon the crew murdering and throwing overboard the second engineer, wounding the mate and chief engineer, and then the rebel lines. To set them adrift in our ports is to expose our own ships to capture by these piratical scamps. If the rebel chiefs should pretend that blockade-runners are not in their service, then we shall at least know what to do with the fellows if they are caught trying to run away with such vessels as the Chesapeake. If they are not in the rebel service such an act is piracy, for which they must be tried and hanged. If they are in the rebel service, then they should not be let go, except as exchanged prisoners, to be sent south.

A party of fifteen men, mostly of the late 8th Kentucky cavalry, on the 8th inst. organized, and pursued a band of guerrillas into Stewart county, in this State, dispersed them, and captured all their arms, horses, camp equipage, etc., and killed three of the rascals. The guerrillas were under the command of Col. Martin, and had committed numerous depredations on citizens near Canton, Ky. John Martin and F. M. Oakley headed the citizens who did this good work.

SENATOR FROM ARKANSAS.—The Memphis Argus of the 6th announces the arrival in that city of Hon. W. K. Sebastian, who, it says, is on his way to Washington to attend the present session of Congress, he having two years to serve of his term as U. S. Senator from Arkansas. Mr. Sebastian has ever been a Union man, and refused to take any part in the rebellion in his State. His presence at Washington, with a view to resume his seat in the Senate, will bring up an interesting question for early settlement.

NO PRIVATE BOATS TO ENTER THE CUMBERLAND.—The following important dispatch was received at the Naval Rendezvous, Cincinnati, on the 10th inst.:

"To Acting Master A. B. Bowen, Commanding Naval Rendezvous:
"No more private steamers or boats not under Government charter, or carrying Government freight, will be permitted to enter the Cumberland river until further notice."
"Lieutenant-Commanding."

MORTALITY AT CAMP DOUGLAS.—During the past month, among the 6,000 rebel prisoners, there have been 100 deaths—or one in sixty. Of the garrison, numbering 900, there have six deaths—or one in one hundred and fifty, which shows a very favorable sanitary condition.
